

Going back to school

Because of the virus, I have been doing some learning from home. It's now time to start going back to school. This will look different to normal school for a while.

Everyone will have different feelings about going back to school. Some kids may feel excited; other kids may feel nervous or sad. How you are feeling may be different and that is ok. Take some time to think about how you are feeling and what you could do.

I'm feeling _____ about the virus as I go back to school, so I will _____

I'm feeling _____ about my school work as I go back to school, so I will _____

I'm feeling _____ about my friendships as I go back to school, so I will _____

When we go back to school, I may attend on different days to some of my friends for a while. If I'm not sure who to play with I can visit the library, take my own toy or magazine to school, talk to someone new, leave a note for my friend saying hi, or talk to a teacher.

Kimochis
...lays with feelings inside

Health
Northern Sydney
Local Health District

I can talk to these people about how I'm feeling (write names in the hand):

Things I missed at school whilst I was learning at home (e.g. events, activities, and people):

A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for a student to write or draw about something they missed at school.A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for a student to write or draw about something they missed at school.A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for a student to write or draw about something they missed at school.

Write or draw about something you are looking forward to in Term 2.

A large, empty rectangular box with a black border, intended for a student to write or draw about something they are looking forward to in Term 2.

It may take some time to get used to the new routine but adults can be there to help me adjust.